

WEB CONTENT SECURITY in a little more detail...

What are the main challenges your business faces in terms of web security?

Securing web usage has become increasingly challenging with malware threats changing and continually evolving. Traditional, reactive anti-virus and URL filtering solutions can no longer keep pace and it is essential that a web security technology solution can analyse, adapt and classify content and new malware threats in real time.

How can Data Connect help?

Our web security solution range provides the latest technology to pro-actively scan Web 2.0 and social networking sites where content constantly changes, guards against lures or redirections to malware which has been injected onto the most popular websites and classifies the 'unknown' web. The ability to 'look inside' SSL communications for content verification is extremely important, especially when many of the most popular sites are connected over https.

What sorts of solutions are there available?

We offer multiple deployment options to suit your corporate network setup, web usage requirements and profile of end users. Deployment can be software based, onsite hardware or virtual appliance, a cloud based service or a 'hybrid' solution combining on premise filtering with a cloud based proxy. Our aim is to guide you to the most suitable solution for your business that protects your corporate assets, information and users - whether they are connecting to the web from the office or out on the road using a laptop, smartphone or tablet.

There are also many business benefits to selecting the most suitable web security solution. These include the management and reporting of user productivity and internet activity, in addition to controlling and preserving internet bandwidth and ensuring your employees only have access to content and categories that are appropriate, thus upholding your corporate acceptable usage policy or regulatory compliance.
